

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1879.

The attention of advertisers is called to the fact that the Register is the leading local newspaper in Addison County and has a larger circulation in the county than any other newspaper.

NOTICES.

—Shell oysters at Colby's.
—Visit Allen's 5 cent counter.
—Oysters on the half shell at Colby's.
—All kinds of tobacco at Manney's.
—Sweet potatoes 4 cts. per pound, at Sheldon's.
—Cranberries and sweet potatoes at Manney's.
—New choice clover honey in two lb. boxes at Sheldon's.
—A large line of new boots just received at Sheldon's.

—Providence sugar oysters received every day at Manney's.
—Oysters on the half shell or in bulk at Colby's dining-room.
—Examine the stock of Paris stoves and ranges at Earl & Barnum's.

—Cubed cigarettes for cold in the head or catarrh, at Dr. Plumley's.
—500 lbs. nice maple sugar in 50 lb. tin cans cheap at Earl & Barnum's.
—Physicians' prescriptions compounded with great care at Dr. Plumley's.

—The highest cash price will be paid for live poultry every day in the week by Garlick & Williamson.
—Largest line of fancy goods in Addison County, at prices that defy competition, at Dr. Plumley's.

—Examine the numerous stock of trusses and supporters at Dr. Plumley's before purchasing elsewhere.
—Powder, shot, gun wads, caps, everything in the line of sporting goods at bottom prices, at Dr. Plumley's.

—Go to J. W. Sargent's for the first-class, low price, the best in the world, the Dryden, Good News and Lincoln ranges.

—VERMONT MEXICO SILENT BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION: The committee on Pedigrees will hold a meeting at the Addison House on Wednesday, Oct. 15, at 9 o'clock, A. M.

—I C U O on book accounts. Our pockets R about M T. We want C U. Good I D if I would call on me or send by mail what U O. Y don't U? R U busted? H. B. DOUGLASS.

LOCAL NEWS.

—Overcoats are becoming more popular.

—Excursion to New York next Tuesday. Fare $3.00.

—Mrs. Hammond held services in Charlotte, Sunday.

—Yesterday was as warm as any day we have had this summer.

—Our sidewalks are undergoing some very much needed repairs.

—Too much "reduction" caused the failure of the town pump, last Tuesday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Darius Severance have just returned from their western visit.

—Rev. J. T. Franklin will preach at East Middlebury next Sunday at 3:30 P. M.

—Particular attention is called to the new "ad." of H. M. Read, our popular clothier.

—Martin Keeler, of Cornwall, shipped a car load of sheep Tuesday morning.

—Mr. Walter S. Langworthy, of Burlington, has been in town several days this week.

—Beckwith & Co. have something to say to our citizens, which appears in another column.

—The report that Jas. H. Batchelder has received his discharge from bankruptcy is erroneous.

—Mr. Monroe Peck has moved into the north part of the house owned by Mr. Carlton Moore.

—Mr. E. D. Twitchell started for Ohio last Tuesday morning. S. M. Stowe accompanies him.

—A number of our citizens availed themselves of the opportunity of visiting Montreal on excursion routes.

—Mrs. Anson Sumner and Miss Alma Lee have opened a dress-making establishment over E. R. Clay's store.

—Among the large crops raised hereabouts this season, no second place must be assigned to the red rose variety.

—Mr. I. F. Cotton has purchased the house and lot in Seymour street, belonging to Thomas Furlow; consideration $1400.

—Rev. Mr. Rowson preaches at the M. E. church Sunday morning, and at the Menger street school-house in the afternoon.

—Mr. Peter Champagne has moved back to his old quarters in the house recently purchased from him by Mr. W. W. Thomas.

—Mr. W. C. Dickinson, who has been employed at the Star Mills, for nearly six years, severed his connection therewith last Saturday.

—Some of the excursionists from this town have returned and report everything satisfactory. Others will stay longer and see more.

—A very interesting letter will be found in another column, from Mr. Henry Hubert, formerly of this place, now of Kewick, England.

—The office of the American Union Telegraph Company will not be open until the first of November, owing to delays in getting material.

—The work on the outside of the new chapel of St. Stephen's church, has been completed. The inside will not be finished until spring.

—The Fairbanks scale upon the hill near the Addison House, which has been down so many years has been overhauled and new timbers put into its works.

—Now is the time when the small boy goes forth to gather butternuts and walnuts on shares, i. e., the gatherer takes the fruit, and "leaves" the rest for the owner.

—We were informed by a gentleman from Leicester that on Monday last he had a swarm of bees come out of a wall. This is a very unusual occurrence and was considered worth notice.

—Ebenzer Severance, who will be 88 years of age next November, finished reading the Bible through by course last Monday, having read it in seven years and one-half days. Who can beat that?

—T. M. Chapman & Co. are rapidly filling their new store with a fresh stock of goods, and are also moving from their old store across the bridge. They intend to establish a five-cent counter.

—Last Monday morning, the thirty-six horses of the estate of the late Benj. Bates of the Green Hill Stock Farm, were shipped to Boston from this station. Also three carloads of cattle and one carload of hogs belonging to M. T. Shackett, and one car of cattle and hogs belonging to A. Williamson.

—C. S. Grow, Henry Dodge's clerk, exhibits a last year's apple which is perfectly sound, it having been thrown in a bin carelessly, and no care taken of it whatever.

—Miss Marie Fletcher, sister of our townman, D. S. Fletcher, who has been visiting her relatives in this section, returned to her home last week in Hartford, Vt.

—The Brandon Musical Union, which gave "Pinafore" here two weeks ago, cleared $1000 above their expenses. This was the largest audience they ever played before.

—Mr. Albert Chapman, our agricultural editor, returned from his western trip last Saturday. He is looking very healthy, and was doubtless much benefited thereby.

—Mr. C. W. Jones, of Shoreham, presented us with a potato weighing 4 1/2 pounds last Friday. It is of the No. 6 variety, and perfectly sound. He reports a large crop of them this season.

—Arnold Brothers' Minstrel and Novelty troupe give an entertainment at Academy Hall to-morrow evening. They advertise an extended list of performers, which is given in another column.

—A goodly number of our town's people attended the marriage ceremony of Mr. Chas. Chrysler, of Independence, Mo., and Miss Hattie Childs of Weirbridge, at the Congregational church, in the latter place.

—A little meloe occurred at the depot last evening, on the arrival of the 9:20 train from Montreal. It was a disgraceful affair, and our town authorities should take measures towards preventing such occurrences so frequently.

—Some of the boys who participated in the "war dance" at Cornwall, last week, gave chase to one of the braves from there, as he was passing through the other evening, but they were frightened off by his firing a pistol up in mid-air.

—Stowe & Goodrich have just received a fine smut-mill and separator of the Richmond make, which will greatly add to the other facilities for making first-class flour. Mr. Stowe says that the new machine will make flour "better than the best."

—Three monster window glasses have been set in front of Stewart's Block, each being 11 feet long, 7 feet wide, and 1 1/2 inches in diameter. They cost about $125 each, and are as large, if not larger, than any others in the state, and present a very fine and imposing appearance.

—Our new bridge seems to give general satisfaction to the public. Its general appearance is much better than was anticipated by those who were disposed to find fault when it was in course of construction. It is very firm and seating capacity is scarcely makes a jar at all.

—Our Editor is at present confined, owing to an accident which took place last Friday afternoon. While riding a bicycle, he in some way took a header, throwing him violently to the ground. His left elbow was badly fractured and his right elbow severely sprained. He is improving under the skillful care of Dr. Eddy.

—Last week's Bristol Herald contained the following news: "Mr. Wm. Cobb, of Middlebury, takes possession of the jail as jailer, this week, and it is said that if Emory won't have, Cobb will set down on him." This must be "in your mind" Brother Wilson; there has been no change of jailers as yet.

—On several different occasions, the dog of one of our citizens has attacked persons in the street. The owner being requested to discipline him, promised to do so, but failed. A lady and her child narrowly escaped being bitten last Saturday evening. Perhaps it will be a good plan for some of our village officers to take the matter in hand.

—A slight error occurred in our statement about a jail last week. We stated that under Mr. Dewey's administration eight prisoners escaped out of the door and none were captured. The correct statement is that only five escaped and one was captured. The escape was by filing off the grates in the window, instead of going through the doors as stated.

—Stephen M. Foote of the Freshman class in Middlebury College, received this week from the Committee of War his preliminary appointment to the grade of Second Lieutenant in the United States Military Academy, at West Point, N. Y. Mr. Foote passed the best examination out of nine who entered the competitive examination held at Rutland, two weeks ago, and was recommended by the examining committee to Hon. Chas. H. Joyce, for appointment. He goes to West Point early in June next.

—Ex-Sheriff I. M. Tripp, has commenced a suit through his counsel, against Dunsbach, who offered the reward of $500 for the arrest of Larrimore, the Cohoes murderer, recently executed at Albany, to recover the value of the suit, and to have the reward claimed by him. His claim is based on the ground that it was through his telegram which he sent to Captain Weldman of Cohoes, N. Y., and in turn sent to Officer Smith of Port Henry, which resulted in his arrest. Considerable dissatisfaction has been expressed in regard to the division of the reward money.

—A ludicrous scene occurred in the jail the other evening. Some little boys were playing with a jack-in-the-box and came to the door of the jail with it. They were permitted to place it in a grated window in front of the cells where the prisoners could have a fair view of its play. A large crowd of eyes, Davis, being a superstitious fellow, on getting a full view of it jumped upon his bed and threw a blanket over his head, declaring that he would not have his picture taken, and no persuasion from the other prisoners could make him move from his bed until the light was removed.

—The Addison county union I. O. O. of G. T. will hold its next session at Bridport, October 8. Morning sessions will begin at 10:30 o'clock and will be devoted to reports from the different lodges. Afternoon sessions will open at two o'clock, and the annual elections of officers will take place. Important questions discussed and other business of the union. The evening sessions will commence at seven o'clock and will be open to the public. It is expected that W. H. S. Whitcomb of Burlington will deliver the address in the evening. The members of the different lodges in the county are earnestly requested to attend as business of importance is expected to come before the union.

—The Poughkeepsie Daily Eagle has the following in regard to the "Brothers' Variety Combination Troupe" which are billed to appear at Academy Hall on Saturday evening, Oct. 4: "The performance at the Opera House on Saturday evening, by the Arnold Brothers' Variety Troupe, was first-class in every respect, and was witnessed by a large audience. Nearly everything was new, and from the beginning until the close the house rang with applause. The clug dance by twelve men was the finest thing we have witnessed on the stage of the Opera House since the opening of the season. Such a company as this deserves to meet with success wherever it goes, and we can recommend it in the highest manner. Everything as advertised is carried out to the letter. We trust they will appear here again soon."

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On Friday noon, Sept. 26th, there was another "rain" of the jail in Middlebury. The jailer being sick that day, Sheriff Dunsbach worked the four prisoners in throwing out the debris, such as broken stones, cement and an excess of loam to make room for the new marble floor which is soon to be laid. At noon, the Sheriff closed the cell doors, and with a long bar which closes the cells over each door, fastened them firmly. At the end of the cells this bar is fastened by a small padlock, which was not locked, and of course the prisoners knew it. While, it seems, not times about throwing out the debris bar over the doors. He took out a stool leg and found that he could accomplish the work, and waited for the opportunity to time some of the prisoners. They were carried down through the main door, and all seemed as usual; but another piece of bread was called for, and the jailer's thirteen-year-old girl went down to give it to them, and she fairly upon the jail floor. While and Davis made a rush for the door, the girl going ahead of them and making a vigorous attempt to close the door, but they were too close upon her to be prevented. It was a screaming brought Jailer Cobb, who was in an adjoining room, who gave chase, and fired his revolver at White as he was going through the fair ground fence, and as subsequent examination of White's new hat showed, came very near putting an end to his running any farther. Still they continued to run across the fair grounds, aiming for what is called Conroe's woods, a mile at the east of the jail. Jailer Cobb and Mr. Buynette gave chase after them. Mr. Cobb having on at the time some heavy boots, threw them off and continued the pursuit to the other side of the fair grounds, then he threw off his coat and continued the chase until he caught them through thistles, until he caught them on the ledge, Mr. Cobb ran north, thus gaining on them until he suddenly came upon White, who was just crouching down to scurry himself, as he had seen Mr. Rider on horseback in the distance. Mr. Cobb ordered him to stand up and stand still, and when he got to him he put his arm into White's and told him that he must go home. He readily walked towards the jail, and in thirty minutes from the time he left he was in his cell again.

At about the same time, Sheriff Dunsbach was putting shackles upon Davis, a "steer man," a little distance ahead. He told the Colonel that Emory was also about, and the Sheriff went about scouring the woods for a little time but getting no tidings of any other escape, he took Davis to the jail and locked him up. It seems that Davis went east and came out into the meadow south of Mr. Mauley's, when discovered by Col. Dunsbach, who is pretty nimble on foot, and he hid in his cell again. The prisoners are now all necessarily confined in the cells on account of the repairs that are going on in the main room of the jail. The marble stones are being drawn from the North Middlebury quarry, and when sufficient amount is delivered the work of laying them down will commence.

—Jenny L. Hagan, improviser and speaker, will deliver an address next Sunday at the meeting-house, on any subject chosen by the audience.

County News

VERGENNES.

—W. A. Woodward, formerly of Sherbrooke, P. Q., has rented the photograph gallery in Adams Block, where he intends to make pictures.

—Three persons were arrested on Wednesday, two for being drunk, and one for resisting the officer, while he was arresting one of the above.

—J. H. Sterns has fitted up rooms on West Street near his residence, where he intends to make pictures. His rooms will be on the ground floor.

—Quite a number of the young people took a moonlight ride on the Water Lily, last Wednesday evening, after the harvest festival at St. Paul's church.

—The saloon keeper signs were laying on the ground on Thursday and advertising their wares well, some of them sitting on steps and others in the gutter.

—Mr. James Mitchell, formerly with N. G. Norton, proprietor of the Island Mills, of this city, has secured a position in the Star Mill, of Middlebury. Mr. Mitchell has been in the employ of Mr. Norton for the past five years, and has a large circle of friends.

—Our fair was a success considering the time taken to get it up. About one hundred head of cattle were on exhibition, and the floral hall exhibit was very fine. Some of the best Alderley stock was on the grounds and drew much attention. The committee of arrangements, and in fact, all of the officers, can congratulate themselves on the success of the fair.

—Quite an excitement was caused by the killing of a horse on East Street Tuesday evening. It appears that three young men were driving very fast and undertook to turn a square corner for Bristol, where they reside, which overturned the wagon and horse. The wagon was badly broken and the horse almost instantly killed. The young men very bravely started on the dead run for home, it is supposed, to avoid arrest. It is needless to say that the driver and party were intoxicated.

—The Union Gospel Temperance meeting held at the M. E. church last Sunday evening, was very ably conducted by C. T. Pierce, and was one of the most interesting meetings so far of the kind, and they seem to grow in interest. The meeting was opened by the reading of Scripture, followed by prayer by Rev. C. T. Pierce, and the choir. The address by Rev. Mr. Munger was then given, followed by another prayer by Rev. Mr. Pierce. Several other addresses were given, and the meeting closed with song and the benediction by Mr. Hubbard.

—The alarm of fire was once more sounded in our streets on Thursday morning about three o'clock, and it proved to be the Cataract House. The fire had gained such headway that it was impossible to stay it by progress, and in a very short time it was burned. Nothing of any account was saved, and really it was a total loss. It was insured for about $7,000. At the time of the fire Mr. E. B. Hayes was in Burlington, and his son, S. V. R. Hayes, was also away, so that no one but Mrs. Hayes and the young children were at home. The house and about $2,000 worth of furniture, part of it just purchased.

SALISBURY.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with intruders, who had apparently had taken all the liberty they chose. Refreshments were served in a bountiful manner. The presents, which consisted mostly of articles appropriate for the occasion, were both numerous and valuable. As the pleasure of the evening drew near a close, the happy couple were reunited in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. VanDeusen, after which all congratulated them on the first five years, and wished them untold joy and happiness for many years to come.

—On the 1st inst., between fifty and sixty of the friends of Harry Walcott and his wife, met at their residence in Salisbury village, to congratulate them on the first five years of their married life. It was in all respects a "surprise" to them, as they returned from a visit in the evening, to find their house filled with